“ I miss this woman everyday. She taught me the true value of friendship. We had quite often spoken of what we wanted in the afterlife. We always said we wanted to come back as a butterfly. It was perhaps a month after her death I went to sit in her garden. A beautiful white butterfly arrived and sat with me for a good 20 minutes. It was acting cute for lack of a better word using it ten ices in a violin like way. Just last month October of 2014 the months of her birthday I went back to the garden tears still flooding my eyes. Another white butterfly arrived dancing in the wind and warmth. I have since done some research learning white butterflies are souls. Sherry I will join you on day to dance in the wind lovely fragile wings outstretched. In the words of the commodores she was 3 times a lady. Love your faithful friend forever Christian.
