“ Vivian and Fred were driving from their home. I was walking with my dog down a steep street which connected to their home; we waved to one another. As Vivian passed me, it began to rain, lightly. Vivian backed up her car and told me to jump in ... the next thing ... the skies opened and the rain was unrelenting. Even the windshield wipers couldn't keep up with the downpour. Vivian's kind heart was so appreciated that day. Go in peace Vivian.
